

Holguin, Cuba.

March 28, 1902.

My dear Father -

Since last wrote I received your letter of the 5th inst. forwarded from Santiago. Paul's letter I return here with. Mary has heard from Baltimore that Paul was suing for divorce. If my letter to Cousin ^{Wm} ~~Sham~~ ^{Dave} sealed, it was an oversight. I did not mean to seal it.

I have written a letter of admonition to Braxton, which I hope will help him to gather himself together.

The cigars will be forwarded fronto' as the Cubans say.

I do not see that the appointment of the Commandant of Cadets to a board sitting in Washington is likely to affect me. I should like to know what they are going to do with me, any regarding the work that I am doing, when the troops are withdrawn from the Island,
if they are withdrawn.

I agree with you in thinking that the publication of the manuscript that I sent you would not be likely to do me any good. I did not think it would when I

is here, a guest
in a room.
I wrote it.
I do not know what
it is of yours.
I am of course
to address me here.
I am of course
to address me here.
I am of course
to address me here.
